Remarks From Mark

Bragging Should Come Natural

As a parent, we love to show off our babies and as they grow we have a desire to let people know of their accomplishments. This is especially true of grandparents dotting on their grandchildren. After all, they are grand aren't they? What school did these parents or grandparents go to learn this skill? We know the answer to this. There are some things that just don't have to be taught. It is something that comes naturally. When it comes to talking about Jesus, some people offer the excuse, and yes it is an excuse, "Well, I just don't have the training needed to talk about Jesus." How much training does it take, if Jesus is truly our Lord and Savior, to brag on Him? It does not require special training to say good things for and about Jesus, what it takes is a greater love! Let us give some serious thought to this. Paul put it this way in regards to bragging about earthly accomplishments for spiritual gain, "But God forbid that I should boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by whom the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world." (Galatians 6:14) There's nothing wrong with bragging on the kids and the grands, but it should come just as natural to us to brag on the One who saved us from our sins! I hope you have a wonderful Lord's Day! Always remember, God loves you and I do too!
